- Do you have migraine?
- Would you like to give opinions on a new preventive for migraine?

Would you like to participate in a focus group discussion on a potential new treatment for migraine?

Researchers at The George Institute and elsewhere are planning to study a new treatment that has promise to reduce migraine and also have other benefits such as improving mood. They would love to get your input at this planning stage

When: 25 September 2019, 11-1230pm (lunch will be provided)

Where: The George Institute for Global Health, 1 King Street, Newtown
Transportation reimbursements up to $50 will be provided

This is your chance to:

- Represent a group of patients affected by migraine.
- Be part of a panel or committee. Consumer representatives provide a community voice for people living with migraine and provide advice to the research team on what matters to you most in migraine research
